

The Unexpected God
“A God for People in a Ditch”
Luke 10:25-37

Mercy is a precious thing that we've come to treat as a worthless thing. It started the day we first saw ourselves as basically good people—in need of a pep talk now and then, a shot in the arm, maybe. But mercy? Mercy is for criminals, beggars, and bankrupts. It's for people in a ditch. But, beware of the unexpected God!

1. Seeking Limitation (vv.25-29)

2. Justifying Inaction (vv.30-32)

3. Offering Mercy (vv.33-35)

4. Finding Ourselves (vv.36, 37)
